

SEPTEMBER 22ND

Proverbs 22:6 “Train up a child in the way he should go: and when he is old, he will not depart from it.” (KJV)

In 2002, I started the first high school home school program in the state of Georgia. I did this for the simple fact that I believe every boy in America should play football. Your size and athletic ability (or lack thereof) had nothing to do with you being a part of any of my teams as I never cut a player. If you were willing to come out, be on time and give 100%, you would never be cut from one of my teams. I felt this was important because the amount of actual playing time does not determine the principles and life's lessons you will learn by participating in a football program. Football teaches discipline and develops your work ethic. It teaches you to be on time and how to listen to authority. There is not one element of football that cannot be used as a reference later on in life. Put the same effort into seeking God's will for your life. Do it using devotions, by prayer, by spending time in God's Word and with other Christians in church or small groups. Seek Godly wisdom and you "...will not depart from it."

CHALLENGES FOR TODAY:

What is holding you back from giving 100% at football practice? _____

What football lessons have you learned that you can apply later in life? _____

What steps can you take to be as equally committed to your walk with the Lord? _____
